I have read a little about the controversy re. Walmart's application for banking status. I have no idea of the pro's and con's, but any competition that they may provide would be welcome!! The banking system, as it is presently, esp. the usurious manner in which credit is handled by banks and credit card companies, is scandalous. No group of companies should be allowed by our government to milk the public dry. Whether it be Walmart or any other group that might relieve the public of the banking/credit card abuses is welcome by me, and should be by any govt. regulatory body that has the public's welfare as a priority.
